The Majesty of Troodos

Traditional villages and exquisite painted churches

This route is an opportunity to explore the northern flanks of the pine-clad Troodos Mountains with its picturesque villages, exquisite painted churches and fertile valleys. Make the best of a full-day itinerary to take in the spectacular views across to Morfou Bay, enjoy a break at a traditional village coffee shop and admire the remote UNESCO-listed stone built churches with their characteristic roofs, magnificent examples of a time-honoured Byzantine tradition. Much of the route is on well-sign posted and well maintained roads, with plenty of petrol stations in the villages and on the main Troodos-Lefkosia road.

In Peristerona, look out for the 11th -12th century Agios Varnavas & Ilarionas church

Set off from Lefkosia and drive towards Kokkinotrimithia a thriving village some 20 kilometres from the capital, with the characteristic red soil which partly inspired its name and follow the main road, driving past Akaki, along cereal and vegetable cultivation. Producers' stalls line the road, an opportunity to pick up some fresh fruit and vegetables, to give you an authentic taste of the basis of the island's cuisine.

As you approach Peristerona, which takes its name from the Greek word peristeri, meaning dove, look out for the 11th -12th century Agios Varnavas & Ilarionas church and the nearby minaret that appears to loom over it. A mixed village until 1964 Peristerona is predominantly an agricultural village, best known for the five domed church Agios Varnavas & Ilarionas, one of only two on the island. A three-aisled, barrel-vaulted basilica, the church underwent later additions and repairs, including the 19th century belfry, but the interior houses wall-paintings from the 15th and 16th century. Look out also for the 16th century altar-doors of the iconostasis.

Back on the main road, head to Astromeritis and turn left on to the main Lefkosia-Troodos road for the gentle ascent into the mountains, past the village of Kato Koutrafas on your left with its stone built arched bridge and look out for the junction to turn right towards Katydata. The copper mine of Skouriotissa with its impressive piles of slag, is visible a few kilometres to the right, off the itinerary and makes for a great visit for those who have an eye for photography. Katydata itself is home to a mine museum. The road goes past the villages of Linou, Flasou and Oikos, past the dam and on to Kalopanagiotis, that nestles in the fertile Marathassa valley, which takes its name from a type of fennel and is famous for its cherries and other fruit.

One of Cyprus' best known hill resorts, Kalopanagiotis is well worth exploring, not only for the magnificent church complex Agios Ioannis Lampadistis Monastery, but for its narrow cobbled stone streets lined with picturesque roof tiled houses with verdant balconies, many of which have been converted into traditional pension-style accommodation. Situated across a bridge from the village is Agios Ioannis Lampadistis Monastery, one of the 10 painted churches in the Troodos range included on the UNESCO World Heritage List and made up of a complex of three churches, other monastic buildings, one of which houses a museum of icons, and an olive press.

Kalopanagiotis

Kalopanagiotis is well worth exploring, not only for the magnificent church complex Agios Ioannis Lampadistis Monastery, but also for its narrow cobbled stone streets

Originally built as an Orthodox monastery it underwent

At Kalopanagiotis a recently installed cable car offers panoramic views of the village and valley

a series of additions and renovations through the centuries, including the construction of a Latin chapel in the 15th century. Although its exact founding date remains unknown, the monastery church dates to the 11th century. The chapel of Agios Ioannis Lampadistis was added in the 12th century and was almost entirely rebuilt in the 18th century. The rich history is reflected in the surviving wall paintings of the 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th centuries. The 15th century wall paintings of the narthex are in the Byzantine tradition, while those in the 'Latin' chapel belong to the 'Italo-byzantine' style, which combines Byzantine and Italian Renaissance elements. Look out for the 13th - 14th century painted wooden templon screen, the oldest wooden templon in Cyprus. The relic of Saint Ioannis Lambadistis is preserved in a reliquary.

Kalopanagiotis is also home to the Kykkos watermill on the banks of the Setrachos River declared a national heritage monument by the Department of Antiquities. A recently installed cable car offers panoramic views of the village and valley.

Pedoulas

Continue the ascent to Moutoullas, well known for its fine water and fecund orchards and stop off at tiny 13th century chapel

Panagiatou Moutoula church, also a UNESCO World Heritage site. This is one of the earliest examples of the steep-pitched wooden roofed churches in Cyprus, exquisitely decorated with frescoes dates to 1280.

The next village, Pedoulas, another one of Cyprus' best known mountain resorts at an altitude of 1100 metres is home to the 15th century Archangelos Michail Church. This Byzantine jewel is listed as a UNESCO World Cultural Heritage Site and belongs to the typical single-aisle, timber-roof type of the Troodos region. The wall paintings are the work of a local artist whose name, Minas, survives. Just opposite is the Byzantine Museum housing icons from the 13th century on. The Folkloric Museum is near the main village church of the Holy Cross.

From there, the ascent is steeper as the road winds through the forest offering panoramic views towards Morphou Bay, to Prodomos, the highest village in Cyprus at 1380 metres and on to Troodos Square, a short drive from Mount Olympus, the highest peak in Cyprus. A former summer retreat for the British colonial government, Troodos is a popular summer and, because of its proximity to the ski slopes, winter resort. Some 200 metres from the square is the Visitor Centre of the Troodos National Forest Park which exhibits of the geology, flora and fauna of the area, including fossils and collections of butterflies as well as a 250 metre botanical and geological trail.

Botanical Garden Troodos

The descent from Troodos Square takes you past the abandoned Amiantos Mine, site of the Troodos Geopark Visitor Centre. Situated in the newly restored elementary school, it hosts a geological garden with all the rocks types of the area, a seed bank of endemic species and exhibits from mining activity in the area.

The Troodos Geopark was recently included in the Global network of UNESCO Geoparks

Spilia

Covering 45% of the Troodos range, the Troodos Geopark was recently included in the global network of UNESCO geoparks. Just off the road is the Troodos Botanic Garden “A.G. Leventis” which is included in the Natura 2000 network of protected areas of Cyprus.

Venture into Kakopetria old quarter, a listed area cobbled streets lined with traditional buildings, some of them mud brick

Continue the descent past the landscape bearing the scars of mining back into the forest, and for an optional detour, turn right some 5 kilometres from Kato Amiantos to visit the village of Spilia, one of the picturesque villages of Solea valley, also known as apple valley.

The next stop Kakopetria to the left, is a popular summer resort for Lefkosia residents fleeing the scorching heat, and a thriving community, boasting the site of the magnificent Agios Nikolaos tis Stegis (Saint Nicolas of the roof) church. The only surviving monastery church of an 11th century Byzantine monastery, the church is a UNESCO World Heritage site. It was named after its steep-pitched roof. The interior is decorated with frescoes covering a time span of over 600 years including the most important 11th century wall-paintings surviving in Cyprus.

Agios Nikolaos tis Stegis

From the village square with its imposing plane trees and bubbling streams from the River Klarios, venture into the old quarter, a listed area cobbled streets lined with traditional buildings, some of them mud brick, at various stages of restoration. The village is believed to take its name from a huge boulder (petra) very near old stream, which legend has it, rolled over and crushed a newly-wed couple.

Stay on the old village road to head to the neighbouring village community of Galata and the church of Panagia Podithou, built in 1502, a UNESCO World Heritage site. Once part of a monastery it is decorated with late 15th century frescoes of the Italo-Byzantine style. From there, head back to main Lefkosia-Troodos road, past

Evrychou, where you can visit the old Railway Station and Museum located west of the village, and turn right to the village of Nikitari and into the forest to visit Panagia Asinou, one of the island's most beautiful painted churches, set in a secluded opening in the forest and home to some of the finest Byzantine art of the early 12th century. Another one of Cyprus' UNESCO listed churches, the interior is entirely covered with wall paintings from the 12th to the 17th centuries. The return to Kokkinotrimithia takes you into Kato Koutrafas, across the bridge on to the main road past Peristerona and Akaki to Kokkinotrimithia from where you can take the highway to Lefkosia.

ENJOY YOUR STAY AND PLEASE HELP US KEEP THE ROADS OF CYPRUS SAFE FOR EVERYONE.

Enjoy a different kind of holiday in Cyprus off the beaten track in peace and tranquillity by staying in a restored traditional house in one of the island's many picturesque villages.

Awaken to the sound of a cock crowing, or a donkey braying, take your breakfast in the shade of a vine with the smell of jasmine or wild thyme in the air, go for a long walk in the pine-scented forest, watch how the local bread and 'halloumi' cheese are made and experience rural living at first hand. And when the sun goes down, just lie back and enjoy Cyprus' magical evenings gazing at one of the starriest skies you will ever see, lulled by the gentle sounds of the night crickets.

You will be given the warmest of welcomes, as Cypriots have a reputation for being hospitable, and you will certainly end up making many good friends before you leave. Don't be surprised if your hosts go out of their way to treat you as one of the family, lavishing a veritable feast of local delicacies upon you.

Kalopanagiotis Lefkosia

Try everything by ordering 'mezedes' and wash it all down with one of the local beers or wines. Cyprus' sweet Commandaria wine is one of the oldest in the world, and if you're brave enough, have a shot of 'zivania', which is almost pure alcohol and packs a neat punch.

More than just for summer, Cyprus is perfect at any time of year. Blessed with an abundance of sunshine and warm year-round temperatures, it is a great place to enjoy winter sun, to avoid the crowds in the autumn and to marvel at nature's springtime tapestry of colour. With rugged coasts and mountain peaks, sunny vineyards and cool pine forests, flat expanses of wheat fields and lush citrus orchards, the island has something for everyone.

And when you've had your fill of relaxing, you'll find that in Cyprus there's much to see and do. Play a round of golf, go cycling, or hiking round the countryside, or take up a new sport. Or wonder at spectacular Greek temples, opulent Byzantine churches and ancient artefacts that are the remnants of a civilisation going back 10,000 years.

The properties offered are a great base from where to explore the island. Carefully renovated to maintain their distinctive character, while including all modern conveniences, they are ideal for those seeking comfort and privacy in friendly and attractive surroundings.

Byzantine Churches and Monasteries

Many fine examples of Byzantine art have survived on the island that can be seen /admired both in painted churches with colourful frescoes and monasteries. Because of the eminent importance of the icons and frescoes, most churches and monasteries are kept locked. Therefore, visitors wishing to see any of these churches should first ask at the "coffee shop" of the village for the priest or any other responsible person who will escort them. The Cyprus Tourism Organisation's publication "10,000 years of History and Civilisation" refers briefly to various churches and monasteries on the island. Some of the monasteries have visiting hours which have to be respected by visitors.

Important Notes:

- Wearing shorts, backless tops,

very short dresses etc., should be avoided.

- The use of flash is prohibited as it may damage the icons and frescoes.
- No accommodation is available in the monasteries.
- Most of the monasteries and convents remain closed on Saturday or Sunday for group visits.
- It is advisable especially for certain monasteries e.g. Machairas and Agios Irakleidos that the guiding should be done outside the monasteries.
